

北京中基衆合國際技術服務有限公司 Establishes Wuxi Branch Office

We are pleased to give notice that our subsidiary 北京中基衆合國際技術服務有限公司 ("中基衆合") has established and taken into operation a branch office in Wuxi in East China.

1. Reason for establishing the subsidiary

Our subsidiary 北京中基衆合國際技術服務有限公司 was established in December 2010 to initiate operation of manufacturing worker dispatch in China. It is the first Japanese-affiliated company in China to obtain a license for labor dispatch services (including the dispatches of manufacturing workers and engineers and other workers).

East China contains one of the concentrations of Japanese-affiliated manufactures in China, with approximately 800 such companies said to be resident in Wuxi. The branch office in Wuxi is intended by 北京中基衆合國際技術服務有限公司 for expanding its operation of manufacturing worker dispatch and was established with the location of clients and the effectiveness of staff deployment in mind.

For Japanese-affiliated firms operating in China securing staff at the location of production has been difficult, attended by problems such as production inefficiencies from low staff retention ratios and the rising cost of recruitment activities.

Looking for a way of resolving these issues, Japanese-affiliated manufacturers have frequently inquired about the manufacturing staff dispatch services that nms (Nippon Manufacturing Service) operates in Japan with the focus on the contracting of manufacturing. To date, nms has received requests to dispatch a few hundred manufacturing workers for the assembly and inspection operations of electronic parts manufacturers and for the assembly operations of automotive parts manufacturers, respectively. To secure 3,000 registered workers by the end of March 2012, 北京中基衆合國際技術服務有限公司 will expand its business mainly around the newly established Wuxi branch office.
